

Plum Blossoms

Date

late 18th or early 19th century

Primary Maker

Chen Hongshou

Medium

Hanging scroll: ink on paper

Description

Branches of blossoming plum in ink monochrome, one branch extends from the right side of the painting diagonally toward the upper left corner; the other branches extend toward the left side, one larger branch curving downward to form a circle. Small circles were made quickly with tip of the brush to outline the plum petals. Artist's inscription located on upper right.

Dimensions

34 1/2 x 12 inches (87.6 x 30.5 cm)